

TO OUR SUBSCRIBERS

The Edmonton Capital appreciates the many messages of commendation that are sent to the publishers daily but if the editors would send a REAL SERVICE to the Capital, they will send the names of a few of their friends who they think should read the paper regularly. The publishers will reply to each sender a small copy free. Better still, send the publishers one dollar, and they will send the paper for one year.

The stenographic work will be done by Miss Blaine if she will accept the position. It was also suggested that if necessary to get the paper published on Thursday morning there will be one or more assistants. Alderman Shepard, who was named by the council to assist in arranging the details, said that it would be advisable to publish the paper on Thursday each week as if held later the news would be getting stale.

The commissioners decided that the first issue should be printed on a letter quality of paper to admit of the publishing prices of the members of council and the city commissioners, using the same cuts that appeared in the last annual report.

The Capital will be patterned after the style of the Official Gazette published in Spokane, Washington. It will contain approximately 16 pages, the size of the paper issued will be 11x14 inches.

The contents of the weekly issues will be the verbatim reports of the city council, the minutes of commissioners and committee meetings, commission reports and interesting items of news from the several departments of the city. From time to time there will also be published cuts illustrating the work of the different departments. No money will be spent on these at present except in cases where illustrations are made for the use of other departments and may be used without extra cost. The Capital will be printed and bound by the Industrial Commission. It will have cuts from time to time that will be of interest.

On account of the criticism that has been leveled at him over this matter, the mayor told the commission that he would much prefer having the paper in charge of some other department. Commissioner Booth recommended that it should be placed in the Parks and

NEW PLAN MAY BE ADOPTED TO SOLVE HOME RULE TANGLE

Proposed to Let Any Irish County Vote Itself of Operation of Measure.

London, March 6.—It is understood that at the meeting of the British Cabinet, Wednesday, the plan previously favored by Premier Asquith and Sir Edward Grey under which the province of Ulster was to be offered a sort of home rule within home rule, was abandoned in favor of a temporary scheme of local option. It is now proposed to accept reports from government circles, to allow any Irish county by a plebiscite to vote itself out of the operation of the home rule bill for a period of three years. The Irish nationalists were reluctant to acquiesce in the local option plan, but they have only accepted it subject to endorsement by their convention which will be held in Dublin, Ireland, Dublin after Premier Asquith has made his announcement in the house of commons on Monday when the bill will be read a second time. The power of a plebiscite by the Irish counties will come into operation immediately after the bill is passed and before the Dublin parliament actually begins its work.

New Electric Light Schedule Is Approved By Commissioners

The new electric light and power schedule, as approved by the city commissioners and reported exclusively in the Daily Capital yesterday afternoon, was passed by the city council last night, and will become effective at once that the citizens may get the benefit of the reduction on this month's light bills.

Albermarl Clarke was the only member of council that strongly opposed the new rates. He argued that the small consumer should not be asked to pay six cents when the large consumers get off for two cents per k.w.h.

Albermarl Campbell referred to the present power charges and stated that the city should be in a position to offer power to consumers at a rate of one and a half cents. Under such a rate he suggested that many who now generate their own power would buy from the city.

The questions of the load factor and peak load were then explained to the aldermen by Superintendent Ormsby, who pointed out that the present system is the only feasible one at this time. He said that with the present business the department might not break even at the end of the year if the proposed reduction takes effect now, but he had the assurance of Commissioner Chalmers that there would be a further reduction made by Superintendent Parsons later in the year and this would make up for any loss sustained under the present conditions.

Superintendent Ormsby estimates that the net result of the reduction will be a saving to the citizens of $70,000. The light revenue of the department will be reduced by $25,000 due to the change in rates last September amounted to $15,000 and the reduction in power rates will amount to $25,000, making $70,000 in all.

IN NOT BORROWING MONEY FOR CANADA BUT OTHER PEOPLE

London, March 6.—The Daily Telegraph describes Canada's $5,000,000 loan, the result of which was secured yesterday, as a "loan to the world," and not a loan to Canada. It says that the loan does not make a full and frank statement of the various impending liabilities that have to be provided for, since it is an open secret that the dominion government is not borrowing for its own necessities as much as for those of other people.

The writer expressed the conviction, however, that the latest $5,000,000 loan though cordily received is sure to get into strong hands shortly. There are larger and more serious questions involved in these quick fire issues than their comparative security.

WILSON'S APPEAL LIKELY TO HAVE DESIRED EFFECT

Clause Exempting American Coastwise Shipping From Tolls Probably Appealed

MORE THAN ENOUGH VOTES IN HOUSE TO CARRY WISH

English Paper Has High Praise for President's Message and His Lofly Attitude.

Washington, March 6.—That the president's request regarding the repeal of the provision of the Panama canal act which exempts American coastwise shipping from tolls will be granted there seems to be little doubt, despite the fact there be vigorous opposition to the repeal in both houses.

Aside from the hearing of yesterday's message on the Panama tolls question, some of the phrases used by the president attracted widespread comment in congressional quarters as relating to foreign questions in general. In some quarters there was disposition to regard some of his statements in the nature of a warning of the difficulties involved in the canal question, even greater delicacy and nearer consequences.

Phase Had No Significance.

Later in the day the president himself in talking with callers explained that these phrases had no significance beyond their bearing on the need of rigorous good faith in the Panama tolls question, as an evidence of unwavering good faith on all other questions, and that nothing critical was pending in foreign relations. But the language of the message continued to be commented upon as having an application considerably broader than the Panama question.

Sailing Close to Wind.

Word had come to the president of a general impression in Europe that the United States was "sailing as close to the wind as possible" in interpreting promises made in its treaties.

No pressure had been brought to bear by any nation to emphasize their view in this connection but the president felt confident that foreign governments had this feeling on the subject.

Senator Shively, acting chairman of the foreign relations committee, commenting last night, was assured President Wilson's references to other matters meant all foreign matters confronting the government. His administration has inherited many foreign problems," he said, and it is necessary that our foreign relations be readjusted.

When the house committee on international commerce met this morning it is expected to favorably report the Sims bill to repeal the exemption clause. On the senate side a bill to repeal the exemption clause was introduced last year by Senator Root of New York.

Representative Palmer of Penna., announced that a poll of the house conclusively demonstrated that there are more than enough votes in the house to sustain the president's appeal.

Praise President's Message.

London, March 6.—The Daily Graphic in an editorial this morning, praises President Wilson's message to congress yesterday, urging the repeal of the clause of the Panama Canal Act, exempting from the payment of tolls American coastwise shipping.

"President Wilson yesterday offered the United States and the larger world outside," says the Graphic, "a singularly impressive illustration of the loftiness of his character and the nobility of his aims. He has shown us that his duty as the chief magistrate of the republic, to do right and to do it loyally and generously without quibble or hesitation is a lesson that every man should learn. He has shown us that the world of statesmanship and freedom is not dead, but that it is still alive and that it is still capable of noble action."

Nor has he failed to emphasize the fact that in matters of this kind the highest honesty is also the largest wisdom."

"FIANCE" DOES NEW YORK WIDOW OUT OF QUARTER OF MILLION

Paris, March 6.—Mrs. Emma Lowey, a wealthy New York widow, was blackmailed out of $125,000 last autumn, it was told in court today.

Mrs. Lowey who is 55 years old, met Louis Desbordes, a young Frenchman, at Strasbourg. He pretended to fall in love with her; they celebrated their engagement with a picnic. While they strolled together, Desbordes' accomplice appeared, personifying a foreknowledge of the pair of treachery.

Next day the false keeper made serious accusations against Mrs. Lowey, who, to escape an unmerited scandal, she paid him $125,000. Then Desbordes vanished, but was caught and will be tried in Strasbourg. His accomplice was captured here.

School Trustee May Think Government Should Go a Step Further.

BUILDING PROGRAM IS ARRANGED BY MEMBERS

Trades and Labor Council Asks Fair Wage Clause Be Inserted in Contracts.

A very important question was dealt with last night by the school board, when Trustee May brought up the subject of free school books and supplies for the pupils attending the public schools of Edmonton. It was Mr. May's opinion that the time had arrived when the board should take some steps to bring this about. In a letter to the school board last night, Mr. May pointed out that the department of education authorities the text books in use in the schools of the province, and makes their purchase and use compulsory. Mr. May's letter went on to say: "The department of education already supplies the authorized readers. They also supply a teacher's manual for the teaching of writing. It seems to me, however, that the government should go further than this, and that in their duty to furnish, free of cost, all other text books required by the pupils of the public and high schools of the province."

After discussion it was decided to leave the question over for further consideration.

The building program for this year was decided as follows:

Four-room addition to North Edmonton school.

Four-room addition to McCauley school.

Seventeen-room school in vicinity of Eastwood site.

Two-room temporary school on Block 14, Cromdale.

Two two-room temporary schools in vicinity of university grounds.

Two-room temporary school in Glenora.

A letter was read from the Trades and Labor Council, asking that the board adopt the fair wage clause and schedule approved by the city council. Mr. Blake, who represented the bricklayers union, urged the board to accept this schedule and stated: "It is no use cramming children with knowledge if they are not well fed and clothed, you cannot expect them to do it if you do not help us to secure a living wage."

A number of appointments were approved by the board upon the recommendation of the school management committee.

LESS MEAT IF KIDNEYS HURT OR YOU'RE BACKACHEY AND RHEUMATIC

Meat forms uric acid which clogs kidneys; causes Rheumatism and irritates Bladder.

If you must have meat every day, eat it, but flush your kidneys with salts occasionally, says a noted authority who tells us that meat forms uric acid which almost paralyzes the kidney's in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken, then you suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids, to cleanse the kidneys and flush out the body's various waste get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate the acids in urine, so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink.

Aggregate Capital Canada's Banks Not Sufficient for Country's Needs

London, March 6.—The Financial News, in a special banking supplement today, discussing "Canada's rapid development" says that the aggregate capital of $114,000,000 of the Canadian banks is too little for the country's needs. Capital has not been increased proportionately to the trade development but it is doubtful whether a substantial increase will be seen in the next few years.

It is greatly creditable to Canada that it has passed through such a critical time with little loss, a result attributable to its sound banking system.

Summarizing the year's operations the article concludes that the Canadian banks have considerably strengthened the liquidity of their resources and simultaneously improved the general position of the country by inducing a curtailment of the speculative fever.

BRINGS A FINE STRING OF RACE HORSES TO CITY

Local Business Man Has Purchased Three Beauties—Will Train Here.

JOCKEY MARTIN PRAISES FACILITIES AT GROUNDS

Says They Are Second to None in West and Better Than Most Larger Cities.

Three of the best running horses in western Canada arrived at the fair grounds yesterday to undergo their spring training. The string consists of Dotty, Ancestral and the late Jim Hand, the well-known American horseman.

The purchasing of the little racing mare Dotty is a decided addition to high class Edmonton owned horses. The little mare in the blue and white livery has been a consistent winner and has annexed a large share of the largest stake races in western Canada. So much so, in fact, that among horse men she is known as the "Queen of the Jungles."

Refused Big Offer.

At the Vancouver and Victoria races she also held her own with the highest class horses at the "big tracks." Her owner refused $5,000 at Vancouver last fall, after the close of the meeting.

The intending purchaser thought so well of her abilities that they intended to take her to Charleston, S.C., where she would have competed with the best horses in North America.

Ancestor, who is a Doctor Legio colt, has shown himself in his short racing career worthy of his sire. He was a "25,000 two-year-old," and was purchased from the breeder at that price by the present owner.

Port Mahone, who is well known on some of the larger race tracks, is a aged horse and has shown himself as a consistent winner; and from whom during the coming meets this summer big things are expected.

Trainer Nickle, in Charge.

The string has been taken under the supervision of Mr. W. A. Nickle, prominent in racing circles throughout the west, and who was for a number of years affiliated with the noted string of E. A. Lewis of Vancouver.

Rider Arthur Martin, of Edmonton, Mexico, on Saturday last and will do the riding for the stable during the entire season. He was one of the leading riders on the coast last year and won a number of good races in Mexico. Martin comes here with a splendid past as a rider, and according to race track authorities has the clearest of records, which make it particularly favorable for his coming season that representative riders with good pasts on American and eastern tracks will all agree on Canadian western circuits this year. He was recently released from $10,000 contract with J. Norris.

Speaking of Edmonton as a training headquarters, Mr. Nickle said last night:

"Edmonton is second to none for accommodation in the way of stables, which are electric lighted and furnished with running water. The conditions here are ideal and superior to many of the larger cities at which I have trained horses in the past."

PRIZE LIST FOR BIG EVENT IS NOW BEING MAILED—Many Prizes Offered.

LARGE ENTRY IS ASSURED

Cattle Entries Close March 12, and For Horses March 26

The prize lists for the spring horse show, the Edmonton Exhibition and the show of the Edmonton Exhibition grounds from April 7 to 11, are now being mailed from the office of Manager W. J. Starke. This year's list is printed in neat pocket form, containing 22 pages, the greater part of which is taken up with the large list of regular and special prizes that are being offered.

Pretty Cover Design.

The cover design is suggestive of the event, is printed in black and yellow and contains as the central figure the head of a noble horse. The first page gives the list of patrons, the officers and directors, and several announcements. The second and third pages contain very good views of the exterior and interior of the new stock pavilion, the largest and finest of its kind in Canada.

Complete information as regards shipping of exhibits is given on Page 5. The donations and special prizes are given in full on Page 6 and the general regulations on Pages 7 and 8. The horse show regulations are set out on Pages 10 and 11. Pages 12 to 27 contain a list of the prizes offered in connection with the horse show. The cattle, sheep and swine prizes are given on Pages 27 to 32.

A large entry form giving full particulars for the proper entry of all animals has been attached to the inside cover. This entry form must be perforated and can be filled in and then torn out and mailed to the manager, W. J. Starke.

The prize list is almost entirely free from advertisements, there being only a small advertising section on the back. A list of other western spring fairs and horse shows is given on Page 8. Entries for the cattle show close on March 12, and all other entries on March 26. A post card to the office of the manager will bring you a copy of the prize list, containing the best and most liberal list of prizes offered by any city in the west.

THE TRANSCONTINENTAL AND THE RAILWAY SCIENCE

At a time when, speaking generally, railway construction was not half as extensive as now-a-days, it cost the Canadian Pacific Railway $100,000 a mile for the mountain section for construction which was never represented as being other than a temporary line which would later require to be made permanent by tremendously expensive betterments of the roadway and substitution of steel for the flimsy wooden bridges with which the gorges were originally spanned. This reconstruction is still going on and the money spent on that account now totals many times the original cost of the road. At the present time the Canadian Pacific is spending no less than one hundred million dollars in reconstructing and double-tracking this mountain section which originally cost only $100,000 per mile.

Down in Ottawa at the present time the conservative government is all heated up over a report concerning the Transcontinental which shows that the $234,000,000 which it cost to build the 1,805 miles equals $129,000 per mile, a figure which, they say, is so tremendous that the road can never be made to pay the fixed charges.

So far, however, nobody has come forward to suggest that the road built was not a good road, or that it was not permanent construction. On the other hand, the charge amounts to the accusation that the character of the construction is too good.

To those who have followed the business of railway construction or have been intimate observers in the changes and developments which have been wrought by a half century of experience, it is as evident as the paper on the wall that the Canadian Pacific which was built through the mountain country at a cost of $100,000 per mile represented one idea or fashion of type or school, or whatever you might call it, of railway construction, while the Transcontinental, which cost $129,000 a mile across a flat country, represented entirely another type, and that each is exactly the opposite of the other.

In the days when the Canadian Pacific was being built the great equation was the financial one. Money was scarce and hard to get and it was pretty hard scrambling to get anyone to risk it in the hare-brained adventure of threading the snow peaks of the Kickinghorse. The great desideratum was to get the line—as cheaply as possible, but get it in—and fix it up afterward. And in that day, considering all the circumstances and contingencies and chances, that was very good business.

But in the days when the Transcontinental was undertaken there had become a very different idea about railroad economics, and a very different idea—or rather dissipation of doubt—about the west. Railway science has come to regard initial temporary construction as very wasteful, and only to be resorted to in cases of financial exigencies. To build permanently in the first place, engineers declare, costs less than to build temporarily and rebuild later, besides being enormously cheaper in the matter of maintenance. In the case of the Transcontinental, there was no reason in the world why the road should not be of the most permanent nature right at the commencement. There was no wild-cat financing to do. The government could get what money was needed and it was building a road for all time. The more substantially it was built the less it would cost to maintain, and the more even the grades the less it would cost to operate. As for the traffic possibilities, there was no shadow of doubt about that. The west was already producing tremendously and the production was jumping year after year at a most phenomenal rate. The traffic was ready and waiting the moment the road was completed.

So that this was the character of the road that the Laurier government decided to build, and this is the character that they did build as far as it was in their power to do so. The road is now almost complete and the conservative dog factory in Ottawa is clattering the wires with a rumor to the effect that the Grand Trunk Pacific will refuse to assume the fixed charges of a road which cost $129,000 a mile, which is their lease price for half a century under the agreement.

The rumor is so altogether improbable that there is very little reason to give it serious consideration. But even if it were true, nothing could be more fortunate for western Canada. With a road of the character of the Transcontinental connected up with the Intercolonial and operated as a government road, the solution of half the railway problem of Canada would be furnished at once by giving access, over the finest new road in the world, to the western prairies.

THE ACHIEVEMENT OF BOWSER AND MCBRIDE

With a population of approximately 525,000, the province of British Columbia last year produced $24,000,000 worth of farm products and imported $20,000,000 to make up the deficiency which the failure of the agricultural business during the past ten years 18,921 pre-emptions have been granted and tremendous blocks of agricultural land have been sold to speculators. But while agricultural production is falling proportionately behind the growth of the country, and the farm land is falling into the hands of speculators, the McBride government gives the speculators, who have found no settlers to buy the lands at the prices asked, an extension of time for payment of debts, and borrows money on short term loans to meet the deficit in government finances created by this failure to meet the payments.

So, while British Columbia imports half of what she eats, millions of acres of the beautiful valleys are locked against the farmer who might, if given an opportunity, make them overcome the deficit in food products and the key to these opportunities is held by speculators who intervene between the crown and the settler, without advantage to the crown.

Over on the Pacific Coast the McBride-Bowser combination is endeavoring to convince the inhabitants that this outcome is an achievement of good government.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY PARTY

Prof. Coolidge, 48 Today, Is an Itinerant Educator

Prof. Archibald Cary Coolidge, the distinguished historian and Harvard's Harvard ambassador, first breathed the classic atmosphere of Boston 48 years ago today. Ever since that day he has called the life of the universe home, but he has seldom been at home. "Where is our wandering boy tonight?" the Harvard undergraduates sing, with great feeling, referring to Prof. Coolidge, and the answer may be Berlin or Paris or Santiago de Chile or Pekin, but seldom Cambridge. Prof. Coolidge's last assignment was as exchange professor at the University of Berlin, where he had already deflected American educational institutions and methods against the criticisms and sneers of the Germans, who hold, as a first article of faith, that it is impossible to secure anything resembling a real education outside of the Kaiser's empire.

In his youth, Prof. Coolidge inherited from the founts of learning in many lands. He graduated from Harvard with the degree of A. B. in 1877, and then went to Germany, where he spent a year at the University of Berlin, to which he was later to become an exchange professor. After that he absorbed lore and wisdom at the Ecole des Sciences Politiques in Paris and Freiburg, in Baden, where he became a Doctor of Philosophy.

On the mountain in the United States, he essayed a diplomatic career by serving as acting secretary of the American Legation in Berlin from the winter of 1880-1881. In 1882 he was for a time private secretary to the United States minister to France, the Hon. T. J. Coolidge, his uncle. The following year he was secretary of the American Legation at Vienna. Prof. Coolidge began his educational career at his alma mater in 1888 as an instructor in history. In 1889 he was made an assistant professor, and in 1890 and 1891 he toured the Orient with the Serbonne and other French universities. In 1894 he became a full-fledged professor, published his famous book, "The United States as America," and in 1895 he was elected North America's oldest university at the Pan-American Scientific Congress, held at Santiago, Chile.

Dr. Coolidge was recently the guest of honor at a dinner in Berlin, and was welcomed by Prof. Paul Shorey, the German exchange professor at the University of Chicago, as one of America's greatest and oldest educators and historians, and as a brilliant representative of that ancient Canaanite institution which he himself founded to train and educate the Jews and is now educating the world.

Scotland's premier peer, the thirteenth Duke of Hamilton, was born 62 years ago today and has held the title for nearly 20 years. The family history of the Duke began with the Sir James Douglas who fought, with Robert Bruce, and whose brother was founder of Scotland and fell at Halton Hill in 1333. The son of the latter, the first Earl of Douglas, was also a distinguished warrior and the second earl defeated Hotspur and fell at Otterburn. The fourth earl after being wounded and taken prisoner by Hotspur escaped and killed the King of England. A son of the first Earl of Douglas became the first Earl of Angus in 1380. Other titles held by the duke include, Baron of Avon, Polmont, Marquis of Inverdale, Anhermoy and Jedburgh, Forest, Baron Dutton of Great Britain and Duke of Chateaufort, France.

TODAY WE CELEBRATE

Birthday of Du Maurier, Author of Best Joke.

Since the days of Adam and Eve, or the first man-monkey to become a monkey-man, there have been professional and amateur jokesters, and they have helped much to make life worth living. Mark Twain declared that there are but seven original or root jokes in existence, and that all others are but variations. A personal study of the current output of the joke smiths lends color to this assertion, but now and then a joke is published that has all the elements of surprise, of absolute freshness and originality. Not long ago a company of distinguished English literary men and women attempted to discover the world's best joke, and, after a vote, they awarded the palm to Du Maurier's joke, which was born in Paris eighty years ago today, is thus immortalized as the father of the supreme joke of the century, as well as the author of the celebrated "Trilogy."

It was while he was a member of the staff of Punch that Du Maurier drew the caricature which represented a poster staggering along under the weight of a grandfather's clock of enormous size, which had been employed to deliver. A small boy of the street bawled him and the last saw the "punch" to the Punch joke: "I say, mister, inquire the gutterside would you find it more convenient to carry a watch?" All England laughed at that joke when it appeared in Punch's classic column, and America, for once not scoffing at the English brand of humor, joined in its laughter of triumph.

Du Maurier first went to England to study chemistry, but he soon fell out with that science, and returned to his native Paris to study art. Believing that London offered the best field for his talents, he came to this city, and began to draw for several publications, finally joining the staff of Punch, the pages of which he enriched with his caricatures and sketches, done largely with society life. He also illustrated Thackeray's "Henry Esmond," and other novels.

Turning from art to literature, he achieved even greater fame as a writer than he had as an illustrator. In 1881 he published "Peter Ibbotson," which was fairly successful. Then 20 years ago, "Trilogy" was published on both sides of the Atlantic, and within a brief time the name of Du Maurier's pathetic and beautiful heroine

A HAPPY CHILD IN A FEW HOURS

When cross, constipated, feverish, give "California Syrup of Figs."

Mother can rest easy after giving "California Syrup of Figs," because in a few hours all the clogged-up waste, sour bile and fermenting food gently moves out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. Children simply will not take the time from play to empty their bowels, and they become tired, pained, liver gets sluggish and stomachs disordered.

When cross, feverish, restless, see if tongue is coated, then give this delicious "Fruit Laxative." Children love it, and it cannot cause injury. No difference what age your little one—if full of cold, or a sore throat, diarrhoea, stomach ache, bad breath, remember a gentle "inside cleansing" always be the first treatment given. Full directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups are printed on each bottle.

was on all lips. The story of artist life in the Quartier Latin of Paris with its tinge of hyponostol, "but of the mysterious east," was the literary hit of the century. A "Trilogy" which stopped little short of mania, seized America, and spread across the Atlantic to England and France. The name of Du Maurier's central figure was applied to scores of articles. Newspapers gave up pages to grave discussions of him, inspired by the young lyricist in Du Maurier's novel. "Trilogy" was dramatized, and although the stage version was made much to be desired, the vast publicity given to the novel made it a success, financially.

In 1896 Du Maurier published "The Martian," and in October of that year he died. The "Trilogy" craze has long since died out, and the rising generation knows little of "Trilogy" and only wonders why a former generation should have been so much wildly excited about that delightful horizon. Compared with the highly apocryphal nature of the present, it must be admitted that "Trilogy" seems a bit tame.

On this date in 1914 the Catholic dignitaries of the Dominion prepared their petition to the federal government denouncing the Manitoba school act as "contrary to the deepest interests" of a large portion of the queen's most loyal subjects.

TODAY IN DOMINION HISTORY.

Toronto will celebrate its eighteenth birthday as a city today, having been incorporated on March 6, 1836. The town of York, the ancestor of the Ontario metropolis, was founded in 1794. In 1812, when it had a population of only 300, it was captured by the Americans. Despite its insignificant size, it was an important place, being the capital of Upper Canada. The town was pillaged by the enemy, and all the government buildings were burned. Even the church was robbed of its plate and the legislative library was looted. By 1830 York had fully recovered, and had a population of 2,860. When it was incorporated as a city, under the new name of Toronto, there were less than 200 buildings of all kinds in the corporate limits. The streets were unpaved, and there were no sidewalks. Following incorporation Toronto entered upon a season of growth and prosperity, and within five years had a population of over 9,000. The first mayor of Toronto was William Lyon Mackenzie, who had opposed the incorporation of the city. When incorporation succeeded, however, he contested the election, and, winning over Dr. Widmer, was chosen mayor by the council. While occupying that position he received a famous letter from his English ally and admirer, Joseph Howe, in which the latter asserted that Canada's troubles could only terminate with "freedom from the hateful domination of the mother country." The letter was made public, and was not disapproved by Mackenzie, who thereupon entered his career of rebellion, hoping thus to become the president of a new republic. When insurrection reached the point of action Mackenzie fled at the first shot. A little later the public career of Toronto's first mayor, a brilliant if mischievous orator and journalist, ended in disaster and disgrace.

method. "La Traviata" is based on the celebrated novel of the younger Dumas, "La Dame aux Camélias," which was published in 1848 and produced as a drama in 1852, but in the opera the period is changed to the reign of Louis XIV. The Marguerite Verdu, who played the part of Violetta in the Verdi opera. The initial scene shows Violetta in the midst of an assemblage of gay pleasure seekers, and the story of the opera closely follows that of love and drama, ending with the pathetic death of Violetta.

The first performance of "La Traviata," one of Verdi's greatest operas, was given in Venice sixty-one years ago today, March 8, 1853. Giuseppe Verdi, whose century has just been celebrated, scored his first success with "Nabuccodonosor," in 1842. This was followed by "I Lombardi," "Ernani," "Rigoletto," "Il Trovatore," and then "La Traviata," the last three the best, as they are the last, of the Italian opera school. "Alba," first sung in 1871, showed that a revolution had taken place in Verdi's mind and

"THE JOLLY JOLLIER" HEADING BILL AT THE PANTAGES IS SCREAM

We have all heard of and many of us have talked to the man who crossed the Alps with Napoleon—how it was Hannibal—the Rubicon with Caesar, the Delaware with Washington, and so on, but the man who has just been found, and who is familiar to all, to which the price of admission was counted in pins and marbles. That was in the days of long ago out in California, when, as is very clear, they were both schoolboys, or else however could the man who went to school with David have been found?

He is none other than James O. Barrows, who plays the role of "The Jolly Jollier" which comes to Pantages next week. He and the one and only David Belasco were together and played many a boyish prank, and then both of them driven by the one instinct arrived in the great world of Theatricals, and both have made a name for themselves beyond their most sanguine hopes they held as youngsters.

But to the schoolboys. David was not like other boys in some things, Mr. Barrows said. He never went in for rough and tumble games and things like that, but spent most of his time reading old books and hunting up old poems. Whenever he found one that pleased him especially he always took it to his warm friends and read it to them. Mr. Barrows was generally the first to see the poem. His propensity to give shows was taken as an indication of latent dramatic ability in Mr. Barrows' opinion, as all boys get up shows, he recalls, but a melodrama which David wrote at 14 can be considered as the forerunner of the better things that came later.

"We called it 'Jim Hideoe; or, The Regulator's Revenge,'" Mr. Barrows said, "and it ran 25 scenes." David wrote the heavy part and I was the heavy Dave always wanted to be the heavy Dave wrote the play himself, and it ran at that time but 14 or 15 years old."

"THE QUAKER GIRL" AT EMPIRE THEATRE MAKES DISTINCT HIT

Abounding with interesting, lively and amusing situations, fresh as an April daisy, and all the while, and through brilliant, with clean comedy, James T. Tanner's "Quaker Girl," directed by John D. Blaisdell, was presented to Edmontonians last evening in the Empire theatre, and the hearty reception it received should insure a long run for the remainder of the week.

There is enough variety in it to make it highly appropriate for every one who loves clean comedy, good music, dancing or singing. The songs, more rounded and melodious than particularly the charming "Come to the Ball," with Philip J. Moore as David, won his way into the hearts of the audience, and after the performance the tune was on everybody's lips. It was one of the distinct hits of the season.

Victor Morley, as Tony Chute, a naval attaché of the American embassy at Paris, won his way into the hearts of Edmonton's theatregoers to an extent that it would be hard indeed for him to undo if he were to prove popular not only in the parts which he was to follow in the program, but in the little extra dramatic, singing and comic acting which he threw in for good measure.

The first act of the play, in which apparently a man who looks alike at all womankind, falls madly in love with "Prudence," the daughter of Bernice McCabe, who takes the place, by her natural beauty and attractive ways, as well as the interesting circumstances of the play, is loved by everyone who sees and hears her.

The second act of the play is a farinella, a back-siding Quaker, well taken by Harry MacDonough, Junior. His humor is unique, even fresh in our day, but which were not all monopolized by the Quakers in those days and are shared to some extent by various denominations even yet.

This is the moral, if it is meant that there should be moral such a joyful drama at all, the last two acts being the working out of the old, old, but ever new game of love, with the villain and the hero and the other exigencies of the situation, all doing their parts.

Prudence, Princess Mathilde, was cast from her strict sister and brothers of the faith, but finds other friends and all is able to join Tony Chute, who wins out for her hand against Prince Carlo, with all the powers which he brings into full play.

Princess Mathilde's maid, is another outstanding character in the play. When the attendants at the first performance read the program, last night they asked themselves (those who are a little, but not very, familiar with baseball) if the leader of the world's champions had followed no other of his fellow-players into vaudeville, but the Comical Mack, who was reported last night was a lady, taking the part of Phoebe.

Clara Butt heard City tonight

Residents Fortunate in Having Opportunity of Hearing Greatest Contralto.

Edmonton at the present moment has the honor of having amongst its visitors one of the greatest singers of the world, has ever produced and the most glorious contralto living today. This distinguished visitor is Mme. Clara Butt, who together with her talented husband Kennerley Rumford, the well-known English baritone will give a joint concert in the Empire auditorium to night.

The two distinguished singers with their party arrived over the C.P.R. train in the depot. Many leading residents who know Mme. Butt and her husband, who have been anxious to renew their acquaintance and callers at their private car have been many during the day.

The seats are almost all sold out and the limited standing-room will also be a premium. It is a matter of regret that it was found impossible to arrange for the giving of a second concert on Saturday night, but owing to difficulties regarding transportation the project had to be unwillingly given up.

In Calgary where last night recital was given, Mme. Butt and Mr. Kennerley received a most enthusiastic reception.

The following letter was received in the city by a resident from a friend of his, a well-known Edmontonian who is now on a visit to Calgary and who was present at the concert. In the course of his remarks he says: "I and my wife went to the Butt-Rumford concert last evening and say they were both brilliant. The crowd went wild at Mme. Butt's singing; she certainly has a most wonderful voice. In the lower register she is superbly rich; the voice is almost full in its intensity, while in the medium register, she has wonderful control, the voice being as clear and pure as it is rich and strong in the lower register. When rendering 'The Angelus' she showed beautiful tone power in the singing of Liddell's 'Abide with Me,' the songs' rocked with applause. The beautiful hymn 'Second Chorus' was superbly fitted them for that glorious voice. In the last verse there were both soprano and organ in the background to see the stately form and magnificent physique of the singer, and then to hear the wonderful power and voice which filled the auditorium and then gradually faded away—all this made one feel indeed that Mrs. Clara Butt is a very fine baritone."

The concert will be commenced punctually at 8.15 o'clock and it is requested that those attending will be in their seats a little previous to this hour. Carriages may be ordered for 10.30.

"THE JOLLY JOLLIER" HEADING BILL AT THE PANTAGES IS SCREAM

We have all heard of and many of us have talked to the man who crossed the Alps with Napoleon—how it was Hannibal—the Rubicon with Caesar, the Delaware with Washington, and so on, but the man who has just been found, and who is familiar to all, to which the price of admission was counted in pins and marbles. That was in the days of long ago out in California, when, as is very clear, they were both schoolboys, or else however could the man who went to school with David have been found?

He is none other than James O. Barrows, who plays the role of "The Jolly Jollier" which comes to Pantages next week. He and the one and only David Belasco were together and played many a boyish prank, and then both of them driven by the one instinct arrived in the great world of Theatricals, and both have made a name for themselves beyond their most sanguine hopes they held as youngsters.

But to the schoolboys. David was not like other boys in some things, Mr. Barrows said. He never went in for rough and tumble games and things like that, but spent most of his time reading old books and hunting up old poems. Whenever he found one that pleased him especially he always took it to his warm friends and read it to them. Mr. Barrows was generally the first to see the poem. His propensity to give shows was taken as an indication of latent dramatic ability in Mr. Barrows' opinion, as all boys get up shows, he recalls, but a melodrama which David wrote at 14 can be considered as the forerunner of the better things that came later.

"We called it 'Jim Hideoe; or, The Regulator's Revenge,'" Mr. Barrows said, "and it ran 25 scenes." David wrote the heavy part and I was the heavy Dave always wanted to be the heavy Dave wrote the play himself, and it ran at that time but 14 or 15 years old."

"THE QUAKER GIRL" AT EMPIRE THEATRE MAKES DISTINCT HIT

Abounding with interesting, lively and amusing situations, fresh as an April daisy, and all the while, and through brilliant, with clean comedy, James T. Tanner's "Quaker Girl," directed by John D. Blaisdell, was presented to Edmontonians last evening in the Empire theatre, and the hearty reception it received should insure a long run for the remainder of the week.

There is enough variety in it to make it highly appropriate for every one who loves clean comedy, good music, dancing or singing. The songs, more rounded and melodious than particularly the charming "Come to the Ball," with Philip J. Moore as David, won his way into the hearts of the audience, and after the performance the tune was on everybody's lips. It was one of the distinct hits of the season.

Victor Morley, as Tony Chute, a naval attaché of the American embassy at Paris, won his way into the hearts of Edmonton's theatregoers to an extent that it would be hard indeed for him to undo if he were to prove popular not only in the parts which he was to follow in the program, but in the little extra dramatic, singing and comic acting which he threw in for good measure.

The first act of the play, in which apparently a man who looks alike at all womankind, falls madly in love with "Prudence," the daughter of Bernice McCabe, who takes the place, by her natural beauty and attractive ways, as well as the interesting circumstances of the play, is loved by everyone who sees and hears her.

The second act of the play is a farinella, a back-siding Quaker, well taken by Harry MacDonough, Junior. His humor is unique, even fresh in our day, but which were not all monopolized by the Quakers in those days and are shared to some extent by various denominations even yet.

This is the moral, if it is meant that there should be moral such a joyful drama at all, the last two acts being the working out of the old, old, but ever new game of love, with the villain and the hero and the other exigencies of the situation, all doing their parts.

Prudence, Princess Mathilde, was cast from her strict sister and brothers of the faith, but finds other friends and all is able to join Tony Chute, who wins out for her hand against Prince Carlo, with all the powers which he brings into full play.

Princess Mathilde's maid, is another outstanding character in the play. When the attendants at the first performance read the program, last night they asked themselves (those who are a little, but not very, familiar with baseball) if the leader of the world's champions had followed no other of his fellow-players into vaudeville, but the Comical Mack, who was reported last night was a lady, taking the part of Phoebe.

Clara Butt heard City tonight

Residents Fortunate in Having Opportunity of Hearing Greatest Contralto.

Edmonton at the present moment has the honor of having amongst its visitors one of the greatest singers of the world, has ever produced and the most glorious contralto living today. This distinguished visitor is Mme. Clara Butt, who together with her talented husband Kennerley Rumford, the well-known English baritone will give a joint concert in the Empire auditorium to night.

The two distinguished singers with their party arrived over the C.P.R. train in the depot. Many leading residents who know Mme. Butt and her husband, who have been anxious to renew their acquaintance and callers at their private car have been many during the day.

The seats are almost all sold out and the limited standing-room will also be a premium. It is a matter of regret that it was found impossible to arrange for the giving of a second concert on Saturday night, but owing to difficulties regarding transportation the project had to be unwillingly given up.

In Calgary where last night recital was given, Mme. Butt and Mr. Kennerley received a most enthusiastic reception.

The following letter was received in the city by a resident from a friend of his, a well-known Edmontonian who is now on a visit to Calgary and who was present at the concert. In the course of his remarks he says: "I and my wife went to the Butt-Rumford concert last evening and say they were both brilliant. The crowd went wild at Mme. Butt's singing; she certainly has a most wonderful voice. In the lower register she is superbly rich; the voice is almost full in its intensity, while in the medium register, she has wonderful control, the voice being as clear and pure as it is rich and strong in the lower register. When rendering 'The Angelus' she showed beautiful tone power in the singing of Liddell's 'Abide with Me,' the songs' rocked with applause. The beautiful hymn 'Second Chorus' was superbly fitted them for that glorious voice. In the last verse there were both soprano and organ in the background to see the stately form and magnificent physique of the singer, and then to hear the wonderful power and voice which filled the auditorium and then gradually faded away—all this made one feel indeed that Mrs. Clara Butt is a very fine baritone."

FEW MOMENTS! NO INDIGESTION OR SICK STOMACH—PAPE'S DIAPEPSIN

Digests all food, absorbs gases and stops fermentation at once.

Women who take your stomach—this portion of the food did the damage—do you? Well, don't bother. If your stomach is in a revolt; if you are uneasy and upset, what you just ate has remained into stubborn lumps; your head dizzy and aches; legs ache and acids and eructate undigested food; breath foul, tongue coated—just take Pape's Diapepsin, and in five minutes you will wonder what became of the indigestion and distress. Millions of men and women today know that it is needless to have a bad stomach. A little Diapepsin occasionally keeps the stomach regulated and they eat their favorite foods without fear.

If your stomach doesn't take care of your food, it is a danger instead of a help, remember the quickest, surest, most harmless relief is Pape's Diapepsin, which costs only fifty cents for a large case at drug stores. It's truly wonderful—it digests food and sets things straight, so gently and easily that it is astonishing. Please don't go on and on with a weak, disordered stomach; it's no unnecessary.

RETURN OF TOURING BASEBALL TEAMS TO NEW YORK TODAY, CAUSES MUCH EXCITEMENT TO SIGN UP PLAYERS

National, American and Federal Leagues Await Return of Giants and White Sox—Great Welcome Will be Given Tourists

New York, March 6.—Men prominent in organized baseball as well as a large group of federal leaguers arrived here yesterday to welcome the world-touring ball players, who will come in early today on the steamer Lusitania.

The Federals have a particular interest in the homecoming of the Giants and White Sox because of their desire to secure the signatures of some of the returning players to federal league contracts, a proceeding which the existing order of things in baseball continually expects to prevent, its representatives declare.

President Jan Johnson of the American league, came into the city today on the same train with James Gilmore, head of the Federal organization. Last night brought President John K. Tener of the National league to the city. The national commission was completed by the arrival of President August Herrmann of the Cincinnati club. Heads of other clubs who reached here are Joe J. Lahnin, of the Boston Red Sox; Wm. Baker, of the Philadelphia Nationals; James E. Gaffney, of the Boston Nationals; Robert L. Hodges, of the St. Louis Americans; and President Chas. H. Ebbets of the Brooklyn's. The minor leagues will be represented. The inmates will go down to meet the Lusitania on the government revenue cutter, which leaves here at 6 o'clock in the morning. At a late hour President Gilmore and his assistants had been unable to get tickets to the cutter. There was some talk of chartering a boat, but as this would not give the Federals admission to the Lusitania, they were said to have about decided to meet the players at the dock, which will give the organized league men an advantage.

Gilmore today sent wireless messages to the eight players he wants—Spencer Crawford, Mingo Wingo, Egan, Leverenz, Dolan and Evans—and told them not to sign until they had heard from him.

A meeting was held late yesterday at the Waldorf, attended by President Gilmore, Attorney Gates and Presidents Baker and Gaffney of the Philadelphia and Boston Nationals. The conference, which was over the status of players in dispute, was unproductive of any agreement, although Baker said the problem would be left to Governor Tener. Baker recently wrote to President Ward, of Brooklyn, informing him that Pitcher Seaton had accepted his terms before he signed with the Brooklyn Federals. Ward replied that the matter had been referred to President Gilmore. Gilmore said today that if the Phillies wanted Seaton, they must give up Catcher Kilfler. President Gaffney also tried to get Pitcher Quinn back, claiming Quinn had accepted terms with his club before signing with the Baltimore Federals.

President Jan Johnson made a statement during the day, in which he declared the meeting held between Gilmore and the two National league presidents. Johnson said he is not here to talk peace to the Federal league, but to welcome the tourists.

"We will fight these people to the bitter end," said Johnson. "They have nothing but a bunch of hand-litters, with a small sprinkling of Major league players, but they are about ten from our league. The Federal league affairs are taken too seriously. The whole thing is a joke."

Gilmore said he could not believe Johnson had made such a statement. "If he wants war we will give it to him," said the Federal league head, "and the fireworks will start before the 4th of July. If Kilfler does not report to the Chicago Federals in Chicago on Sunday there will be some fun."

EDDIE MCGOORTY AND CARPENTIER TO BOX IN MAY

Chicago, March 6.—Eddie McGoorty the American boxer now in Australia, met George Carpentier, the French champion, in a bout in Ireland some time in May, according to a message from McGoorty received in Chicago yesterday. It is said the contest will have an important bearing on their claims to the world's middle weight championship. In his message, McGoorty stated he would leave Sydney for Dublin, March 18.

Richard Croker, the former New York political leader is reported to have offered a purse of $20,000 for the fight.

TODAY IN PUGILISTIC ANNALS

1911—Johnny Coulton defeated Frankie Conley in 20 rounds at New Orleans. This defeat put a stop to Conley's climb toward the bantamweight championship. The Italian, whose real name is Francesco Conte, was born in Kenosha, Wis., in 1889, and entered the ring at the age of 16. He fought a draw with Ad Wolgast in 1907, and again at Racine in 1908. In 1910 he knocked out Monte Attell, twice defeated Joe Mandot and went 15 rounds to a draw with Abe Attell. These performances made Conley look like a coming champion, and he challenged Coulton, but was defeated, although he stayed the limit. Later in 1911 he fought a 20-round draw with Joe Bivens, and in February, 1912, Coulton gave him another chance. This time the battle was waged in Los Angeles, and in the first bout, it ended in a decision for Coulton. After that Conley lost heart, and he was whipped by Jack White, Harry Thomas, Johnny Dundee, and others, and put out of the championship running.

1912—Eddie Hannon and Young Corbett fought 20-round draw at San Francisco.

1912—Abe Attell won on foul from Dave Johnson at San Francisco.

1913—Ad Wolgast knocked out Walter Little in 4th round at Los Angeles.

Hoppe Beats Demarest. Chicago, March 6.—Willie Hoppe last night defeated Calvin Demarest, 500 to 275 in the 18.2 billiard tournament. Hoppe did not show the form which made his previous game so interesting and the match ran 12 innings.

Omaha is driving out all known immoral women.

WINNIPEG LOSE TO MONARCH-SCONIA COMBINATION 3-0

Winnipeg, March 6.—The Monarch-Strathcona combination defeated the Winnipeg hockey league here last night by 3 to 0 in the final game of the Winnipeg hockey league here last night. The game was more or less a joke, the new Allan cup holders playing the first half and scored one goal and they then sent out the Strathconas, who defeated Selkirk in the independent league Wednesday night, and they also outplayed the Winnipeg on the heavy going. The weather is lightening up a little and it is most probable that better ice will be available for the first Allan cup game with Kenora Saturday night.

SPORTOGRAPHY

Honus the Great Passes 40th Milestone Today.

Honus, 37, surpassed The Great Duke of Pittsburgh, otherwise John Henry Wagner, "the Flying Dutchman," was born in Carnegie, Pa., Feb. 24, 1874, and a little later figuring shows that he will pass his fortieth milestone today. Although he was barely able to keep in the 200 batting class last year, it is understood that the poor old crippled wreck still entertains the notion that he can play ball, and that he will be seen on the diamond in a Smokey City uniform again this year. Hans has been swatting the pill 399 or over ever since he joined the National League away back in eighteen hundred and ninety-seven, when the Louisville Colonels, then in the big show, engaged his services as an outfielder. Old Hans is now the patriarch among the stars of the big league, Edkie Plank, of the Athletics, who will be forty next year, being the closest rival for the old-age stakes.

Wagner broke into the pastime under false pretenses. His brother, who was a ball player, and after making something of a reputation in Pennsylvania, he received an offer from Canton, O. He had just accepted it when Mansfield, O., in the same league, offered him a berth. At the same time he went to Mansfield and posed as the Wagner to whom the offer had been made. Honus followed this advice, but the manager of the Mansfield club soon got wise to the fact that Hans was a pretender. He was hard up for a third sacker, however, and he decided to give the young German a chance. His first league game was against the Canton team, of which his brother was a member. At induced the Canton pitcher to give Hans a chance by letting him hit, and Honus made two hits. In the ninth inning—which is where we always reach the critical point in a baseball story—Mansfield was three runs to the bad. Mansfield got three men on bases, and was up to Honus. This time "Toots" Barrett, the Canton pitcher, tightened up and put everything he had on the pellet. Hans struck the first one over a mighty wall on the smoot and sent it searing over the fence for a homer, bringing in four runs and winning the game for Mansfield. Hans made good right along, and a little later he was engaged as captain of the Adrian, Mich., Homesteaders, caused him to throw up this job, and he went back to his native Pennsylvania and signed up with Warren, in the Iron and Oil League, finishing the 1911 season with Steubenville, in the Tri-State circuit. In 1912 he went to Patterson, N. J., and the next year the Louisville club, owned by Barney Dreyfuss and managed by Fred Clarke, engaged his services.

Headhunting players are not confined solely to the playing field. For instance, they expect Home Zimmerman of the Chicago Cubs to be in bed at 11 o'clock every night after handing him a lot of advance money.

The Brooklynites have been introduced to handball by their manager. When the real days arrive they will properly be introduced to football by their opponents.

T. R. AND A. A. WIN O.H.A. SENIOR 9-7; ST. MICHAELS LOSE

Score in First Game 6-5 and Last Night 3 to 2—Largest Hockey Crowd in Toronto

Toronto, March 6.—The Toronto Rugby and Athletic association defeated St. Michaels by 3 to 2 last night before the largest crowd that ever witnessed a hockey game in Toronto, and retains the senior championship of the O.H.A. It was the second of the final games. The Toronto won the previous game by 6 to 5, therefore the score on the round is 9 to 7.

It was a splendid game. Until within six of eight minutes of the finish the score was 1 to 1. At half time St. Michaels were ahead by 1 to 0, and the count on the round was 5 to 4. In the second half there was a fierce struggle for the extra goal, and the spectators were wrought up to a high state of excitement. Each player did the best that was possible and the checking was lively. St. Michaels showed the most speed though the margin was narrow.

HANS WAGNER SIGNS FIFTEENTH CONTRACT WITH PITTSBURGH

Pittsburg, March 6.—John P. (Hans) Wagner, veteran shortstop of the Pittsburgh National League club, brought his signed contract to Pirates headquarters yesterday. He is the last Pirate to sign except Hendrix and Simon, who are reported to have signed with the Federal league. It was Wagner's fifteenth contract with Pittsburgh, and his sixteenth in organized baseball. The Pirates will leave for Dawson Springs Saturday night to begin training.

N.H.A. FINALS TO BE PLAYED SATURDAY AND WEDNESDAY

Toronto March 6.—After Wednesday night's game at the Ave. a president Emmet Quinn, of the N. H. A., ordered Toronto to meet Canadians at Montreal on Saturday night next and back in Toronto on Wednesday night. Goals will count on the round.

REGINA WILL HOLD JUNE RACE MEET "BOOKIES" ALLOWED

Regina, March 6.—Four that the June meet of the Turf club might have to be cancelled was disappated yesterday afternoon when at a special meeting of the city council it was decided to grant the use of the exhibition grounds and race track without interfering in any way with book making privileges. This was done on the assurance of Alderman Davidson that this is the last year that book makers will be allowed to operate at the race meets.

So much Federal league vs. Major leagues' fight stuff comes over the wires at this stage of the game that the fans must be puzzled to know exactly what is happening. There are three theories: that the Federal league is trying to black-jack the Majors into buying them out at an enormous sum in order to hold their monopoly; that Westelman has the coin, is a real red-hot hot fan and willing to go the limit to make the league a success; that the league is a purely winter affair and will melt with the spring. Whether the Federal league know where they're going or not they're on their way.

Among the curious taxes imposed in Germany on various subjects are those on hairy carriages, where the amount is 40 cents each; and $150 tax on caged nightingales, of which there have been none for many years.

AS DESTINED TO BE A LARGE CITY

Willow River Has Wonderful Natural Resources and Is Well Situated.

GREAT ELECTRIC ENERGY

Lumber in Vicinity in Abundance—Supply Can Hardly Be Estimated.

The probability that the northern extension into the Peace River country of the Pacific Great Eastern railway, now under construction from Vancouver to Fort George, will be from Willow River, the town at the confluence of the Peace and Fraser rivers, about twenty miles northwest of Fort George, has accelerated the already great interest taken in that town by the public.

T. E. Haley, of Grosby, Minnesota, a well-known hotel man, has gone to Willow River so that he can be on the ground and superintend the construction of the magnificent hotel he is having built there. Mr. Haley states that he expects to have one of the finest hostels between Winnipeg and the coast. His plan is to build a hotel to a finish so as to be prepared for the large trade expected through that part of the country this spring and after the route is completed to Prince Rupert in the summer.

An Important Industry

A really important industry is already assured for the town, one which will employ 300 men at the start, and about 500 men in the summer.

It is a gigantic lumber mill, to be built by Bruce O'Brien, of Callahan, Michigan, under the supervision of men of that state, who is backed by other Michigan capitalists in the enterprise. This will be the largest and most modern in the world. It will cut 100,000 feet daily if two-hour shifts are used.

A. C. Frost, the man who became famous for building the Chicago and Milwaukee Interurban railway, is also about to build a big sawmill for some Vancouver capitalists.

These two mills will probably prove the start of a big lumbering industry, as Willow River is located in the center of what is said to be the foremost timber country in the west, save only the coast, and the trees surrounding it are exceeded in size only by those of the Pacific slope. It has been estimated by the government that on the Willow alone there are three rivers covering Willow River, there are over 9,000,000,000 feet of timber. It has been predicted that Willow River will become the largest lumbering center in the province, outside of Vancouver.

The land from an agricultural standpoint in the Willow River district stands high, the valleys of the rivers and creeks being fertile and rich. To the north there is the Peace River country, the town of Willow River being the natural gateway between that famous territory and the coast.

Adjacent to the town are great coal deposits which are only waiting to be opened up with the coming of the G. T. P., which owns the townsite. For years in the Peace River district south of there, placer gold mining has been carried on. Other mineral deposits are also known to exist.

On account of the lack of transportation facilities so far, no development to any extent has taken place. George Hartford, Chicago, a newspaper man who has been with the Morning Inter-Ocean, one of the leading papers of the West, recently took a trip west over the G. T. P. and was so elated with what he saw that he has given up his position in the spring. He intends to bring a large modern plant from Chicago and run a first class paper.

In the immediate vicinity of the town, principally on the Willow river, there is enough potential electric energy to supply several towns and cities of large populations with light, heat and power. Mr. Hartford was much struck with the features of the town's advantages and stated that it had more natural resources than any city he knew of up to 10,000 people.

After giving up one of his positions, Mr. Hartford should become a large center, the fact that the three rivers met there and thus made it a place to which lumber could be floated down on all three of them, Mr. Hartford said.

"There have been thousands of people in and around Chicago, who have been waiting to come to Canada until the G. T. P. was finished to central British Columbia. Here comes you had in Canada last season, and the weather this winter have obliterated what doubt existed in their minds, and you will see an unprecedented influx into the country this spring. The Transcontinental T. & N. Co. has been coming up here, but I am going to come up on my own hook in a couple of weeks and settle in Willow River."

BEAUTIFUL DRAMA OF WAR AND LOVE AT BIJU THEATRE

"Destiny Fulfilled," a powerful and beautiful war drama in three parts, carrying the audience through a period of two generations, will be the feature film for today and tomorrow at the Biju play theatre.

This film, however, does not present the usual sensational war admixture, but merely uses the war atmosphere in some of the scenes to proper air to the story. It tells a sweet and heart-touching story.

In the days of the American civil war, Lucille Pennington, the daughter of a southern fire, fell in love with John Carr, a young man from the north.

When the Confederacy surrendered—Pennington, rather than submit to the Yankee's, fled to the mountains. Lucille, however, did not forget her love—and when at length he succeeded in finding her, in her remote hiding place, old Pennington was won over to their marriage—on condition that Carr would not take his daughter away from the mountains.

The birth of her baby, Rosemary, cost Lucille her life and Carr's mind was permanently shattered by his wife's death.

Rosemary grew up in her primitive surroundings, her mother never returning.

He passionately in love with her—and when Frank Davis, a stranger in those parts, won her back, the mountain minister, vowed to have her revenge.

He influenced Carr against his daughter, and her lover, filling his sensitive mind with all manner of malicious suggestions.

One day, Rosemary—wishing to seem as beautiful as possible to Davis—dressed in a costume as her mother's and appears suddenly before Carr. The sight of his dead wife, as he believes, comes back to earth.

He balances Carr's mind—and Rosemary is so badly frightened by his ravings that she consents to leave him for good.

They are married, and go to live in Richmond. But city life and modern conventions are only a new torment to the girl intensely homesick. Davis takes her back. Luke tries again to get her back, but Carr's memory is suddenly restored, and he refuses to be an accomplice in Luke's schemes. Instead, he turns upon him, as a dangerous character, and drives him from the scene.

For once and all, Davis and Rosemary renew their happy life together with her father, now convinced of her worth and the destinies of love are fulfilled.

In the mythical city of Turkey Trot, everyone is a Turk, and the town is a turkey trot.

Everywhere, in homes, in business, in the schools. Even the judge in his high dignity is a turkey trot.

The comedy film of this program, "Turkey Trot," is the most important feature of the evening.

TUDOR PRINCESS IS STAR FEATURE AT THE EMPRESS THEATRE

"A Tudor Princess" is the title of the star feature film that leads the excellent bill at the Empress theatre for the program of today and tomorrow. And with Mary Fuller, the charming Mary Fuller in the title role, the picture is a most interesting and charming affair.

The story is based on historic facts and is one of the most romantic tales of English history. Mary, the sister of Henry VIII., was a very attractive and lively young lady. To give the new born house of Tudor, prestige among the kings of Europe, it was necessary to arrange a match with Louis XII, of France to marry his sister, Sherry.

Sherry wanted to marry Charles, the young duke of Suffolk, however, never the less Henry would have his way, and after bringing back his sister and her lover, who had run away, she is placed in the dilemma of either marrying Louis or having Suffolk's head cut off.

She married the old favourite Louis, and the young Duke followed her. He secured admission into her son and loved the young queen to fit with him. While he was in the midst of his fervid attentions, Louis entered. The Duke was seized, cast into a dungeon to await his execution. But before his sentence was carried out Louis died and the brave young duke was again liberated.

They happily returned to England and when Henry was in good humor she secured his consent and they were joined in happy wedlock.

"Flaming Heart" is the name of a comic funny comedy film. John Bunny, the round chubby funny Bunny is seen in one of his best addresses. It is a long time since Edmonton has had the pleasure of seeing a Bunny picture and this opportunity will be welcomed.
